

A note from Pastor Owen Scott...

John Hyde, the “Apostle of Prayer” as he was often called, said that one had to “give himself” if he wanted to serve God and help men...that it was not enough to give our time and talent, but that our “life” must be given. Think for just a moment how few of us give of our life. Whenever we sense that our life is touched, we tend to draw back and preserve ourselves. Hyde’s constant exhortation was “Give your life for God and men. Let that vital energy, that living power within, be poured out for men”. Hyde lived what he preached. He gave himself as he preached and poured out his life as he prayed. Hyde’s constant joyful praise to God, his wonderful love for the souls of men, and his child-like obedience were the secrets of his successful and fruitful life. John Hyde was born in 1865 and went home to heaven in 1912. His last words were, “Shout the victory of Jesus Christ”.
